

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

ON THE TEACHING OF SPELLING

THE teaching of spelling is concerned with both vocabulary and method. The words to be taught must be those which meet actual needs, and the method must be such that the spelling will be made automatic. Introduction

The vocabulary of this book is based upon the lists published by various scientific investigators in recent years, supplemented by lists from other reliable sources. An earnest effort has been made to include all words which belong to the writing vocabulary of the average person, and to exclude all words which are rarely used, or which are so comparatively simple that they no longer present any spelling difficulty when they come into use.

But a mere word list, no matter how well selected, is not a spelling textbook. It is the function of a textbook not only to provide suitable subject matter, but also to direct the pupil's activities upon this matter in such a way that he will master it with the greatest possible economy of time and effort. It is in this sense that the New-World Speller is a textbook, combining a thoroughly reliable vocabulary with methods of study which result in actual power to spell.

Learning to spell involves the formation of certain habits of mind. The most important is the habit of observing correctly the printed form of words. Next in importance, and often associated with this habit, is that of hearing words correctly. Nearly all mistakes in spelling result from the failure of children in these respects. The lessons in the New-World Speller have been planned to aid pupils in the formation of habits of observation. Formation of spelling habits

Effective work in spelling, as in all school subjects, depends on attention. Forced attention may accomplish something, but what is done with interest leaves the more lasting impression. The lessons, therefore, introduce great variety into the necessary drill in order to make it attractive to the children.

To the Teacher

Directions for study

Each year's work begins with a page of directions for study. These are addressed to the pupil, and form a vital part of the book. They should be read and applied. In addition to these general directions, nearly every lesson contains special suggestions for mastering individual words. The general and the special directions together are intended to stimulate and develop the self-activity of the pupils, and will gradually train them to attack a lesson without hesitation and learn it in the most economical way.

The power to grapple with a lesson independently, however, is not instantly acquired, no matter how clear the directions for study. The teacher must be relied upon to devote a part of the recitation period to directing the forces of her pupils, until habits of study have become established.

Methods of study

Teach the children how to study and train them to use all the helps provided in the book. They must learn to select from each lesson the words which they are sure they can spell and to give all their time and attention to the others; they must learn to sift the easy from the more difficult words and to give each group its due amount of time and attention; they must learn how to get the meaning and use of unfamiliar words; they must learn to clinch knowledge by repetition.

The greatest possible variety in presentation and drill should be introduced. The lessons may sometimes be studied by looking at the words, then closing the eyes and trying to see the words with the mind's eye; sometimes by writing them on paper or on the blackboard; sometimes by spelling them aloud; sometimes by building them with cardboard letters; sometimes by playing simple games, which may or may not take the form of a contest. Attention should be directed to the difficult combinations of letters by underlining them, by writing them with crayon or pencil of a different color, by repeating them orally many times in succession, by comparing them with other words which have the same combinations. Any device that will fix the attention upon the letters which make the word difficult will be of the greatest assistance.

The method of learning new words by spelling them aloud should be carried on in school only when teacher and pupils are studying together. The results of a few minutes taken from the recitation period for the purpose of spelling aloud the hard words of the next day's lesson will repay the outlay of time a hundredfold. After habits of study have been established, spelling lessons may be assigned for home work, and the directions for study will then be invaluable.

A child does not know how to spell a word until he can do it automatically, both orally and in writing. To develop this power, review constantly. Each day the lessons of the preceding two or three days should be quickly but thoroughly reviewed; words of special difficulty should be followed up until they are thoroughly learned; and the many regular and special reviews should by no means be omitted. Here, again, variety is of the greatest importance. Each pupil may be required to keep a blank book in which he enters from day to day the words which he has misspelled. Frequent reviews of such words will correct individual errors. Another useful device is a blank book in dictionary form kept by the teacher. The words misspelled in class may be entered under their initial and reviewed by letter, the lists being copied on the blackboard for this purpose. After a little training, the pupils will be able to write the words in this dictionary of errors, and will take pride in keeping the lists as short as possible.

and drill

To the Teacher

Homonyms and vowel combina- tions

The grouping of homonyms introduces a difficulty where none exists. It is a mere incident that there and their are pronounced alike. They are spelled differently and have entirely different meanings, and if each is repeatedly used in its proper relation to other words, the child remains unconscious of the similarity of pronunciation, and consequently no confusion arises. The same is true of all homonyms. In the higher grammar grades, when the words have been fixed, no harm can result from associating them in a drill exercise.

Though the spelling of many English words is absurd, as, for instance, eight, trough, reign, bureau, once, these are much less troublesome than common verb forms and words containing a sound expressed by several different vowels or combinations of vowels. Feed, read, shield, machine, receive, here, are illustrations. Nothing but frequent oral spelling and still more frequent writing of these words in sentences or phrases will fix them in the child's mind. If the word is important, clinch it; if it is not important, do not teach it at all.

Use of sentences and phrases

The sentences and phrases are intended for dictation. The phrases afford an economical method of giving a large amount of drill on writing related words without taking time for complete sentences. Incidentally the children learn to discriminate between groups of words which express complete thoughts and those which do not. It is a good plan to read the sentence or phrase distinctly once, and then have the pupils repeat it before writing. Insist that they write without hesitation. This involves a thorough study of the lesson.

Syllabica- tion

Learning to see the syllables of which a word is composed is one of the most important steps in learning to spell. Pupils must ultimately learn to see the syllables in undivided words. As an aid to this end, the words in this book are usually divided when they appear for the first time in the lower grades, while in the higher grades syllabication is gradually discontinued. The exercises requiring the pupils to find the short words of which longer ones are composed, those requiring them to combine short words into longer ones, and those requiring them to copy words and divide them into syllables, are all designed to cultivate the observing powers, and long use has demonstrated that such exercises are effective.

Have the pupils constantly pronounce distinctly before spelling by syllables. Since authorities differ, pronunciation may be accepted as a safe guide in a majority of cases.

Since the purpose of correcting spelling is to fix the right form in the child's mind, keep this end constantly in view. In oral spelling, have the child who made the error spell the word correctly at once. In correcting written exercises, cross out the wrong forms, and insist on their being rewritten correctly, so that finally only correctly spelled words shall be before the pupil. Many teachers make the mistake of so correcting papers that the wrongly spelled words are the more prominent. Train pupils to leave a blank space whenever doubtful of a word, and to write the word correctly after the papers have been returned to them, underlining it for thorough study.

Correction of errors

The dictionary habit is an invaluable one; its importance cannot be overestimated. This book provides for progressive dictionary work throughout, following a general plan begun in the primary grades.

Use of the dictionary

In the first grade the pupils are taught the letters of the alphabet in their order, and hunt words in alphabetically arranged lists. This work is continued throughout the second and third grades. In the fourth grade exercises are introduced to show that the initial letter alone does not determine the place of a word in an alphabetical list, and pupils are taught to arrange words in true alphabetical order and to insert words into lists already prepared. After this, each grade takes an onward step until in the eighth grade the pupils will be able to use a large dictionary effectively. To accomplish this end, however, it is necessary that the work outlined be carried out as thoroughly as is the teaching of spelling. Adequate directions are given in all grades.

To the Teacher

Adaptation to junior high schools

In writing this book the needs of schools organized on the junior high school plan have been kept in view. The vocabulary has been so arranged that by the end of the sixth year the large body of common words has been taught. Practically all the words most commonly misspelled have appeared, and the child who drops out of school at that point is not handicapped by finding that he has been drilled on words which he never has occasion to write, and has failed to learn the everyday words which he needs. He will, moreover, have gained sufficient power to visualize words to enable him to learn with ease new words. The child who enters the higher grades, on the other hand, will take with him a well-developed power both to study and to learn his spelling lessons promptly and effectively.

An appendix containing special spelling matter has been inserted at the end of the book. Many words required in connection with the various school subjects are more or less technical, and the time when they are needed in written work is determined by the curriculum of the subject concerned, and not by a graded spelling course. Since curricula differ, these words can be more readily located when brought together in one place than if scattered throughout the book. Provision for the use of this matter is made in special lessons.

Teacher's
manual

A teacher's manual giving full and explicit directions for teaching spelling, interesting historical matter, and a bibliography for teachers, is furnished free to all teachers whose classes use these books.

FOURTH GRADE

"We learn to do by doing."

TO THE BOYS AND GIRLS OF THE FOURTH GRADE: We learn to do a thing by doing it many times, and we learn to spell by spelling over and over again the words we need. Try to make your spelling matches so interesting this year that you will enjoy them as much as you now enjoy your games at recess or your gymnasium work. The next page tells you how to study. Read the directions and use them every day, and use the special directions given in many lessons.

HOW TO STUDY A NEW WORD

Read these directions every day until you have formed the habit of following them :

Make sure of the meaning of the word.

Listen carefully when you hear it pronounced.

Pronounce it very distinctly yourself.

Look at it closely. If it is not spelled just as it sounds, find the hard spot.

Spell the word aloud or softly to yourself over and over again.

Write it without the slightest hesitation.

If it is not used in a sentence in the book, make a sentence of your own for it.

HOW TO STUDY A REVIEW LESSON

Each lesson contains only a few new words. The rest are review. After you have mastered the new words, see if there are any review words that you have forgotten how to spell. If you find any, study each as if it were a new word. If the entire lesson consists of review words, do not waste time on those you know. Make a list of those you need to study. Cross out each word as it is mastered. Give special attention to the words that troubled you when you studied them for the first time.

DICTIONARY LESSONS

Each dictionary lesson contains clear directions. Follow them carefully, and dictionary work will become a pleasure as well as a help.

1. REVIEW

This lesson and the three that follow it contain the hardest words of the second and third grades. Many of the words contain a catch. Be sure to read each day the directions for study on page 138. Make sure of all the words, and then have a spelling match.

5. SPELLING MATCH

Use the words in Lessons 1, 2, 3, and 4. Help your side win.

6

Follow the directions on page 138. Do it every day.

“Well begun is half done.”

begin	frisk y	twist	away
be gin ning	crowd	apple	again .

What letter in beginning was doubled before adding ing?

7

Use each group of words in a sentence :

pane of glass	pay car fare	bread and butter
buy my ticket	enjoy the game	shall be busy
tick et	en joy	over clover

8

I could not find any mellow pears.
There were none on the tree.

hoe	great	black	cheer
hoe ing	great est	blow	grade

9

Use the last word of each column in a sentence :

love	tail	walk	east	out
dove	sail	talk	feast	shout
shove	jail	stalk	least	stout

Fourth Grade

10. DICTIONARY LESSON

If you wished to find the word sugar in an alphabetical list of words that contained a great many s's, you would waste time if you began at the beginning of the s list. Instead of doing that, you notice the second letter, u, and this tells you that you must look near the end of the list. Turn to page 139. Copy all the a and b words on slips of paper. Then mix up the slips and without looking at the book arrange them in order, thinking of both the first and the second letters.

11

ti ger	el e phant	mule	monkey
bea ver	colt	sheep	bear

Which of these animals are wild? Draw a line under the two letters in elephant which give the sound of f.

12

Which animal builds its own house?
Which one has a trunk?
Does he carry his clothes in it?

east	an i mal	each
beast	cloth	peach

How many syllables has animal? Pronounce the word very distinctly.

13

I sew a long seam every day.
I use a needle, thread, and a thimble.

thim ble	bread	bright	beach
nee dle	thread	brother	teacher

What are the last two letters in needle and thimble?

14

What changes were made in the first word of each group to form the second and third? Spell these words aloud.

slap	fit	stir	scrub
slapped	fit ted	stirred	scrubbed
slap ping	fit ting	stir ring	scrub bing

15. REVIEW

Review Lessons 6-14. You may omit the dictionary lesson, but study the others according to the directions on page 138.

16

The farmer raises oats and other grains.

har vest	fork	spoon	close
mead ow	skate	burst	drink

Which of these words are easy because you already know how to spell boat, rain, and head?

Fourth Grade

17

There was a leak in the gas pipe.
The knife has a sharp edge.

Which word is like money? What are the last two letters in collar?

22

What change was made in the first word of each pair before adding ing?

ache	be come	prom ise	in vite
ach ing	be com ing	prom is ing	in vit ing

Draw a line under the letters that make ache hard.

23

Each of these words may be used in speaking of a person :

What common word do you find in the last part of the word vegetable? Make sure of the rest of the word.

44

Which words are often used in school?

o bey	whis per	necktie	ounce, oz.
taught	ex am ple	pound, lb.	oxen

Be sure to pronounce the h in whisper. Pronounce it in these words also : wheat, while, white, where.

45

Review Lessons 36-44. Do not forget how helpful it is to spell the words aloud.

46

fore head	an kle	guess	crumb
shoul der	eye brow	sure	don't

Find the three hardest words in this lesson, and draw a line under the letters you need to study most carefully.

47. DICTIONARY LESSON

Copy the c, d, and e words from page 139. You will find that often there are several words having the first two letters alike, such as cheap, choose, church. You must then arrange them so that the third letters will be in the right order.

48

A crow stole a piece of cheese from a dairy.

dair y	lion	leader	leaf
fair y	oatmeal	muddy	leaves

49

A fox wanted the cheese, so he said, "Pray let me hear your lovely voice."

FIFTH GRADE

Words are but the signs of ideas.

SAMUEL JOHNSON

TO THE BOYS AND GIRLS OF THE FIFTH GRADE: It may be that in the future some of you will write newspaper articles, and a few may even write books. But all will probably write letters, and although the ideas you express in your letters are more important than the words, yet these words must be spelled correctly. Try to master the signs so thoroughly that when you write you can give all your attention to the ideas.

Be sure to follow the directions on the following page when studying your spelling lessons.

HOW TO MASTER A NEW WORD

Remember that the steps in mastering a word are understanding its meaning, listening carefully when it is pronounced by others, pronouncing it distinctly yourself, noting the blunder spot, spelling the word over and over again either aloud or softly to yourself, and writing it without hesitation both as a single word and in a sentence.

HOW TO STUDY A REVIEW LESSON

When studying a review lesson, select the words which need study, and proceed as if they were new. If you have not already formed habits of study, be sure to do so in the fifth grade.

DICTIONARY LESSONS

Remember that you have spelling lessons only to help you spell when you need to write letters or have written lessons in other school subjects. It may happen that you will wish to use a word you have not learned to spell. It will then be necessary to refer to the dictionary. You have already learned to find words in short alphabetical lists. This year you will learn to use a small dictionary. If your school does not provide you with one, ask your father or mother to buy one for you. It will prove a very useful friend.

The dictionary lessons are as important as any others. Do not neglect them. If you study them faithfully you will not only learn how to use a dictionary, but you will form the habit of using it.

USE OF A NOTEBOOK

Get a small blank book and use it constantly in three ways: copy into it the words you misspell in each lesson and review them every day; copy into it the words selected with the help of your teacher in special lessons; and copy into it any words which you find you need in other lessons and whose spelling you learn from the dictionary.

Fifth Grade

2. REVIEW

Review the abbreviations at the foot of page iv of the Appendix at the end of the book, and the numbers on page v. These words are placed in the Appendix, not because they are not important, but because it is easier to find them when placed there than if scattered through the book. For the same reason words which you may need in written lessons in connection with other school subjects are placed in the Appendix. You will have lessons from the Appendix from time to time.

15. REVIEW

Review Lessons 6-14. Consult your notebook for words you have missed. Be sure to select the words you need to study, and waste no time on the others. Read the first two paragraphs of page 186. Follow this plan in every review lesson, even though you may not be told to do so in every case.

Fifth Grade

16. DICTIONARY LESSON

In the fourth grade you learned where words belong when arranged in exact alphabetical order. You are now ready to use a dictionary.

Let us suppose that you wish to write the word dripping, but do not remember whether it has one p or two. Take your small dictionary and proceed as follows :

At the top of each page of the dictionary you will find in large letters the first word on the page and the last word. These words are called guide words.

Find the guide words beginning with d. Think where d comes in the alphabet and waste no time. Then find the guide words beginning with dr. Suppose that the first guide word on a certain page is drawl and the second dropsy. If you think of the third letter of dripping you will see that it belongs between these two guide words, and must be somewhere on that page. Look for the dri words. When you have found dripping, copy it into your notebook for review. Find the following words in your dictionary : believe, different, minute, women, straight.

Some common vegetables :

car rot	cel er y	cu cum ber	squash
pars nip	let tuce	cranberries	pumpkin

What is the blunder spot in lettuce? Find these words in your dictionary.

18

cuff	e las tic	feather	rubbers

19

The tower of the castle was very high.

We had a view of mountains and broad valleys.

valley	tow er	fruit	wrong
valleys	cas tle	yellow	whose

What are the last two letters in castle? Spell view aloud five times. Find tower, castle, and view in the dictionary.

20

Use in a sentence each word in the lower row :

lock	wear	leak	lash	coop
shock	swear	squeak	flash	scoop

21

It won't thaw while it is so cold.

I am	are not	bugle	blame
I'm	aren't	buckle	blanket

Won't means will not. It is not formed in the usual way.
Tell how each of the other contractions is formed.

22. SPECIAL LESSON

With the help of your teacher make a list of the names of ten of your classmates. Begin with the names which are most common and which you may often need to write. Copy them into your notebook and learn to spell them.

104. DICTIONARY LESSON

Some time ago you learned that the accent is a great help in pronouncing a word. The dictionary also uses other pronunciation marks which you need to understand. There are twenty-six letters in the alphabet, but many more sounds. A letter often has several different sounds, and the dictionary uses certain marks to show which sound a letter has in a given word.

The letters a, e, i, o, u are called vowels. Y is a vowel when it has the same sound as i. Can you find anywhere a word which does not contain one or more vowels?

The vowels have many sounds. The sound which is the same as the name of the vowel, except in the case of y, is called the long sound and is marked as follows:

cāne bē wŕite hōle ūse trȳ

Each vowel has also a short sound, marked as follows:

căt bĕd hĭt lŏt ŭp trulŷ

Mark the long and short vowel sounds in the following words: shady, bite, check, club, hot, she, try, catch, cube, hitch, both, pity.

Fifth Grade

105

cab'in	gnat	grate	al'ley	ca'ble
firm	fleece	fraction	free	gather

Find the word which means a narrow street ; a large rope ; a hut ; an insect that stings ; a part of a stove. Mark the long and short vowel sounds.

106

The underlined words refer to persons. What work does each do?

butch'er	of'fi cer	plumb'er	den'tist
	judge	ought	lazy
	fringe	fought	crazy

107

"All's well that ends well."

"An honest man's the noblest work of God."

hon'est	no ble	couldn't	die
haven't	no bles.	doesn't	dying

Tell clearly how the contractions all's and man's are formed. Which word begins with a silent letter?

118. DICTIONARY LESSON

In addition to the long and short sounds, each vowel except y has several other sounds. Notice that a has a different sound in each of the following words :

gate hat ball cart care ask was any

The dictionary has a mark for each sound, but it is not necessary for you to learn each one. The dictionary has a very simple plan for helping you with these sounds:

Suppose you look up the word halter in the dictionary. You will find it printed as follows: hal'ter (hal'tēr). At the foot of the page you will find a list of key words which help you get the right sound of a and of e. You will find a in the word all and ē in the word fēr. With this help and the accent, you can pronounce hal'tēr correctly. The best way to become familiar with these marks (called diacritical marks) is to refer to the key word whenever you need to do so.

With your teacher's help, select five hard words from your reading lesson and find out how to pronounce them.

These words are often used in school :

SIXTH GRADE

“Practice makes perfect.”

TO THE BOYS AND GIRLS OF THE SIXTH GRADE: In the fifth grade you learned to use the dictionary. This year make it your constant companion. Now that you can turn to new words quickly, train yourself to use the dictionary whenever you are not certain of the spelling of a word you need to use in any written exercise. This is the only way to become a perfect speller. Read the following page for fresh study helps.

HOW TO STUDY SPELLING LESSONS

In the lower grades you were taught to study a new word by learning its correct pronunciation and meaning, finding the blunder spot, spelling the word over and over again, and finally writing it without hesitation. This is still the best way for you to attack a new word, but you should be gaining speed all the time.

Do you find that you see the syllables in an undivided word more quickly than you did? Do you see the blunder spot of the word almost immediately? Can you see words with your eyes closed more easily than you did in the lower grades? If you have improved in these ways, you are growing in power. During this year, time yourself occasionally to see how quickly you can thoroughly master a hard new word.

Try the following plan when striving to learn your lessons more perfectly and at the same time more promptly :

Look at the words for a few seconds and then close the eyes. Try to see the word in your "mind's eye," and if you see it clearly, open your eyes and write it. Do not try to write it unless you are perfectly sure of the spelling. If one look is not enough, try a second look, or even a third, until you see every letter clearly. It is a good plan to begin with the shorter words and advance to longer words as you grow in power. Learning a spelling lesson will be an interesting task if you look upon it as a sort of game in which you can gain skill and speed.

The Appendix contains many useful lists. You will have regular lessons on these words from time to time, but it is a good plan to discover exactly what the Appendix contains, as you will often find it useful when you are writing lessons in the various school subjects. Make the most of every help the speller gives you and of the dictionary also.

1. REVIEW

Review pages ii and iii of the Appendix. These words are more often misspelled than any others in the language. You have had them all. If any still give you trouble, master them now.

Sixth Grade

18. DICTIONARY LESSON

Name the vowels. The remaining letters are called consonants. A few diacritical marks are sometimes used with consonants, but it is not important that you learn them, for, as a rule, dictionaries give the correct pronunciation of consonants by spelling the word as it sounds, as follows: aisle (il); fraction (frăk'shun). Make sure of the correct spelling of any word you wish to pronounce properly, before looking at the pronunciation helps. Look up the following words in the dictionary and notice how the dictionary helps you pronounce them: sign, biscuit, choir, cupboard, neighbor, stranger, patient.

19

ac'cent	vow'el	syl'la ble	con'so nant
	elastic	fringe	veil

Copy the first four words and underline the letters needing most study.

20

“The seeds of the thistle always produce thistles.”

o'er	doesn't	that's	we'll

106

unusual	impatient	unable	unpleasant
trigger	judge	arrange
dentist	honest	noble

What prefix has each word in the upper row? How does the prefix change the meaning of the simple word? Does the use of the prefixes un and im make the words harder to spell?

107

cinnamon bun	first aid	sore heel
future success	athletic sports	quire of paper
amuse	advance	preserve	accuse

Copy the hardest words, and underline the blunder spot in each. Spell the words aloud as you copy them.

Sixth Grade

108

General Gibbs and Captain Powers were in full uniform.

Both officers have excellent records.

General, Gen.	ex'cel lent	re spect'
Captain, Capt.	rec'ord	copper

109. SPECIAL LESSON

With your teacher's help, make a list of the industries and manufactures of your city. If you live in the country, make a similar list for your state. Copy the words into your notebook and learn to spell them. Be sure to review these words as well as those in your spelling-book lessons.

110

saw and plane	private property	wring clothes
original poetry	profit and loss	sew a seam
iron	metal	parlor	furnace

Time yourself to see how long it takes you to learn this lesson. Your lesson must be perfect if you wish a record for your speed.

111

du'ty	tab'let	ci'pher	sphere
ac'cu rate	mistake	liquid
season	idle	separate

In which words does ph have the sound of f? Consult your dictionary if you find an unfamiliar word.

112

“Knowledge is power.”

The time of the auction is not yet known.

Copy all the words having more than one syllable. Draw a line between the syllables and place the accent.

115. REVIEW

Review Lessons 106–114, and review also any words you have had in the arithmetic list on page vi of the Appendix. This is not too long a lesson if you waste no time on words you know. As a matter of interest, see how many words you can spell aloud correctly in one minute. Ten minutes of hard, steady study is enough for a very long review lesson.

Sixth Grade

Do not grieve over what cannot be helped.

grieve	ad vice'	wor'ry	primary
grief	ti'dy	worried	exercise

Does the e or the i come first in grief and grieve?

DIACRITICAL MARKS

There are twenty-six letters in the English alphabet, but there are many more sounds. Some letters, therefore, must serve for several different sounds, and the diacritical marks are used to show which sound a letter has in a given case. The marks here given are those used in the Webster's New International Dictionary.

A few diacritical marks have special names, as those used with the following words:

cāne, macron; mĕn, breve; wŏrk, tilde; câre, circumflex; reċeive, cedilla.

Vowel Sounds

ā as in cane	ê as in there	ū as in cube
ă as in mat	ī as in mine	ŭ as in tub
ä as in arm	ȳ as in tin	ũ as in turn ạ as in fall	ĩ as in firm	ụ as in full
â as in care	ȳ as in machine	ư as in rude
à as in ask	ō as in hope	ỹ as in try
ạ as in was	ǒ as in hot	ỹ as in truly
ē as in be	õ as in work	ÿ as in myrtle
ě as in met	ô as in for	ōō as in cool
ẽ as in her	ơ as in tomb	oo as in look

Consonant Sounds

Most consonants have but a single sound, and in these cases no diacritical marks are necessary. The following consonants are not marked when they have their most common sounds:

ç as in receive	ġ as in engine	ş as in has çh as in machine	ñ as in wink	th as in this
eh as in chorus	x as in exact
